[METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR DEVICE COMMUNICATIONS]

Abstract of Disclosure

A method of determining a communications channel ncluding detecting whether a host is in a system; if a host is detected, querying the host for a channel on which to communicate and switching a channel selection logic based on a result from the query; and if a host is not detected, determining a channel on which to communicate based on the number of devices on each channel.